The Attractions of California.

It is not only the exchange of wintry weather for that of summer that makes California attractive at this time of year. There are the forests of giant trees, which the State is endeavoring to preserve, the mountains, the missions of early Spanish monks, and many other features which are always objective points with tourists. How to reach California comfortably and at the least possible cost is a query best answered by the Sunset Excursions, made via the Southern and Southern Pacific Railways three times weekly the year around from this city. Particulars may be had at the office of A. J. Poston, general agent, 511 Pannsylvania evenue.
